Frank China Inguanzo is a Cuban-born visual artist based in the United States. His paintings explore identity, displacement, and political resistance through large-scale, expressionist compositions. Raised in Miami's Little Havana, his work draws from his lived experience as an immigrant and activist. Working primarily in oil, acrylic, and watercolor, Frank blends spontaneous brushwork with layered symbolism, drawing influence from Romanticism and Surrealism. His emotionally charged, dark-toned works have been featured in solo and group exhibitions internationally and have been described as dreamlike, apocalyptic, and deeply personal. For Frank, art is both a form of storytelling and a vehicle for truth, a way of giving voice to the unheard and holding memory to account.
